THE CLUM IES

S

Our “Happy Accidents”

cocktail menu is a love letter to serendipity and happenstance
as ubiquitous forces.

We invite them both
when we are experimenting on our new recipes.
We welcome them
when our everyday life doesn't stick to the script.

Would it matter if David Bowie's left iris wasn't damaged
due to a teenage fistfight over a girl?

Is the landing of a ladybug a sign as meaningful as a falling apple?

How gracious can a slip, a downfall or a windy dress be?

Do you need to miss a train or get caught in the rain to meet your true love?

If there is an answer,
then maybe Julian Barnes knows it:
*“You put together two things that have not been put together before.
And the world is changed. People may not notice at the time, but that doesn't matter.
The world has been changed nonetheless.”*
